

Orion Foxwood Faery Sight Oil

It blends herbal magic from Europe, Africa and America and is a potent tool for developing spirit sight. Each oil comes in its own satin bag.

Rating: Not Rated Yet

Price

Ask a question about this product

Description

The recipe for this oil was given to Orion Foxwood by a Conjure woman when he was 10 years old. It is reputed to be over three hundred years old and stayed within the family until it was given to him. Originally, the base was deer fat oil. It blends herbal magic from Europe, Africa and America and is a potent tool for developing spirit sight. It loses its potency when exposed to sunlight and thus should be stored in darkness with its charge renewed by sitting in the light of the full moon feasible. It is best applied by using placing one dot of oil on the third eye and one in the center of each palm. Then you should begin gently and slowly clapping the hands together allowing the palm-dots to touch. This should continue until you feel a warmth and slight lightheadedness come over you. This light trance is called a "rapture". This stage of being does not induce possession or personality displacement. It only enhances your inner gifts and cannot induce the attraction of maleficent forces. Each batch of oil has been blessed by Brigh and Orion Foxwood for the cultivation of inner light and spiritual truth. Orion and Brigh wish you health, wisdom, wealth and joy as you re-enter the blessed dialogue between your center and the source. May you be blessed by the Brigh, the Lady of Light.

For more information on this oil as well as the teachings of Orion Foxwood and his Faery wife (Brigh), go to OrionFoxwood.com.

Do not ingest this oil! It is for external use only.